The Lisbon Stroke Summit reached its very successful third edition! We will keep the discussion on controversial topics of our everyday practice, reviewing rare conditions where evidence is far from real cases, and we will take a pick of the possible future of stroke medicine. Topics like artificial intelligence, precision medicine and stem cells, in line with a personalized medicine where individuality is considered for the best treatment strategy, are going to be discussed by top names in stroke medicine. This Summit is an effort to do better, to treat better, to understand better and to offer the possibility to discuss difficult clinical topics in an informal and pleasant way.
